Franklin Will Not Be Present.

Commonwealth's attorney Robert B. Franklin, who was expected to head tie protestants before Governor Willsonson when the executive will here arguments by friends of Caleb Powers and Jim Howard urging their parden Friday night wrote a letter to Attorney Sam M. Wilson, of Lexington, of counsel for Powers, notifying him that he will not be present at the hearing.

The letter is as follows: "I am reminded that to morrow is the day upon which you and your associates, in behalf of Caleb Powers and James B. Howard, will present to Governor Willson petitions for the pardon of Powers and Howard, Since hearing from you and since you last heard from me, I have taken up this matter with my associates, and as Governor Willson has never directly requested the presence of the Commonwealth's representatives we shall not appear before him in connection with the subject matter. You and I know there are few Kentucky men, now petitioning for the pardon of Powers and Howard, who were not for the acquittal of Youtsey, whether guilty or innocent, and for his pardon after conviction by the jury until he testified against his conspirators.

The most prominent of those now asking pardon for Powers and Howard, in so far as I am informed, were the loudest in denunciation of the prosecution of Youtsey, and in declaring him to be an innocent Sunday school scholar from Cold Springs in Cambte l

"If Governor Willson's purpose is to determine the guilt or innocence of Caleb Pow:es or James B. Howard of participation in the assassination of William Goebel, of which they have so often been found guilty by the juries, he should most thoroughly understand all the evidence given to all the juries in all the Goebel assassination trials. Should he desire to study the matter I shall be glad to present to Governor Willson all the evidence ever taken in these cases for consideration upon his request. Being himself a lawyer, the Governor knows that much of the evidence against James B. Howard is absolutely incompetent as against Caleh Powers and therefore could not have been introduced upon the last trial of Howard. Governor Willson, looking at this matter as a lawyer, will bear in mind that Caleb Powers is indicted as accessory before the fact and therefore what Powers' associates in this crime had to say after the actual assassination was not competent evidence against Caleb Powers.

Wiggins is a horse of attractive conformation, 153 hands high, full of quality, and with fine feet and legs. In disposition and manners he is perfect. His colts are uniformly good colors and inherit his bold, frictionless way of going. They are generally pure gaited and trot with light shoes and few boots. Wiggins himself wore a 7-ounce shoe with no boots in front. He was foaled a trotter, and as a yearling trotted a mile over a three-quarter mile track in 2.33¼. He took his record when two years old and won five straight stake races and $4,600 that season. Douglas Thomas, his trainer, says he could have trotted a mile over a good track in 2.12. His colts not only trot fast young, but sell for high prices. He was himself a bold finisher and his colts are like him in this respect. For an out-cross for in-bred mares you can't do better than to breed to Wiggins, though he nicks well with mares of any breeding. No other stallion at the same age has ever accomplished more than WIGGINS. No other stallion of any age ever had three two-year-olds to beat 2.18 trotting in one year. No other stallion ever had seven trotters in 22.0 list at ten years. For further particulars address,

MINNESOTA EXECUTIVE MAKES NOTABLE ADDRESS.

QUESTION OF STATE RIGHTS

Does Not Approve of Commonwealths Being Made Subservient to inferior Federal Courts-Would Uphold Constitution.

Gov. John A. Johnson of Minnesota delivered at the dedication of the Minnesota monument on Shiloh battlefield, April 10, an address that will rank as one of the ablest public deliverances of recent times. Spoken on a battlefield that may be taken as the symbol of the great war for the union, the governor took occasion to tell of the peril that threatens our federal form of governmen. This peril was emphasized by the recent decision of the supreme court in the railway cases going up from Minnesota and North Carolina, which practically makes the state governments subservient to the inferior federal courts. The significance of these decisions is widely understood, and they have given rise to a general discussion of the question of the rights of the states, and Gov. Johnson's speech will rank as an important contribution to that discussion. The dedicatory address in part follows:

Representing the people of the commonwealth of Minnesota, we are assembled on one of the historic battlefields of the civil war to pay our tribute of respect and affection to the memory of the sons of Minnesota who here yielded up their lives that this might continue to be a united nation. Their sacrifice was not for personal gain, but was in response to duty, and a contribution to the civilization of the age, and for the purpose of perpetuating the institution of

I appreciate that nothing which I can say will add to or detract from the glory of their achievement, which in itself is an enduring monument to the patriotism and heroism of the American soldier. Their sacrifice. however, was not different from that which has been made throughout ail of the ages by those lovers of liberty who believe in a government which might give to all the people the right to life, liberty and property. The love of liberty was not born in this country of ours: it was cradled along the Danube and about the shores of the Baltic; even when Rome had reached the limit of her imperial grandeur. Increasing in intensity with the passing of the centuries, it found its highest expression in the older countries in the great English charter of civil rights, which forever guaranteed to the people of that land immunity from the despotism of those who claimed to rule by virtue of Di-

One hundred and thirty-two years ago the great contest of humanity was transferred from the old world to the new, and here, because of the isolation of this country, because of the high character of the man who espoused the cause of liberty, and because of the signal victory achieved by them in that struggle, an opportunity was afforded to crystallize into written law the aspirations of the patriots of all the ages. The men who built the foundations of this government were those who had submitted to the supreme test of patriotism, for those who inspired the constitution of the United States were the same who had pledged their lives, their properties and their sacred honor to the cause of independence.

While the primary object of a written constitution is to define governmental powers, and to limit governmental departments, the overwhelming necessity for such an instrument is to prevent insidious encroachments upon the rights of the individual citizen, both from those in office and from those who by reason of their wealth and power have an influence far greater than that possessed by the average citizen. And so the constitution of the United States was regarded by its framers as an instrument of the most sacred import, an alteration of which could only be made by the people themselves in whom all ultimate power is vested, and then only after the fullest discussion and widest pub-

Under the beneficent government so established the nation has prospered and the people are happy. One great cloud came upon the nation in the form of an awful civil war, in which two sections of the country were in conflict with each other. The heroes who rest here gave their lives that this nation might be maintained as it came from our forefathers. On another battlefield of that war, Abraham Lincoln said: "It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated to the unfinished work they have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us; that from these honored dead we take increased devotion for that cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion; that we highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that the nation shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the

Our concern is not of the past, nor wholly with the present, but much with the future. If the destiny of the republic is in the hands of the American of to-day, then it becomes him to be guided and governed only by patriotic impulse and the desire to do that which will most largely contribute to tions. Advancing our civilization so that we will not, by recognizing the false claims of selfish interests, and forgetting the American maxim that our object should be to attain the greatest good for the greatest number, incur the penalty which other people have paid, rather let us hold ever in mind that those who framed our government believed in the equality of the people and that the chief aim of government is to maintain that equality.

Under our system of government the nation has reached a material development hitherto unknown. The people have prospered beyond the dreams of those who lived a century ago. But with the development of the country and changes in economic conditions, and particularly with the growth of great private corporations, performing many of the functions of government, has come the necessity for the exercise of strict governmental control, and a rigid enforcement of all the laws enacted to restrain the rich and powerful from encroaching upon the natural and legal rights of the poor and weak.

The constitution of the ancient republic of Rome, which for 500 years had recognized the voice of the people as supreme, was expanded by executive interpretation and contracted by executive administration, until Rome had so completely outgrown its democratic conditions as to become only a tragedy and a tradition. Let us implore the aid of Him on high to preserve us from the errors which ruined Rome, by the avoidance of which America may travel on to that destiny and realize that fulfillment which will be the inspiration of right-thinking men of all ages yet to come.

Our government is divided into three separate and distinct co-ordinate branches: the legislative, the executive and the judicial. Danger will surely come to this republic when any of these departments of government attempt in the slightest degree to usurp the functions of the other. And while now and then it may be that a court of the land, in construing the constitution, may nullify a section of it, I have the faith to feel that the people of the country will rise above the fallibility of judicial tribunals and assert and preserve their own rights. Our duty it not to criticise the executive, the legislature or the judiciary.

Very recently there has come from the highest judicial tribunal in the land a decision of vital interest and concern to the American people, because it has established a principle, as stated by one member of the court, which "would work a radical change in our governmental system and would inaugurate a new era in the American judicial system and in the relations of the national and state governments. It would enable the subordinate federal courts to supervise and control the official action of the states as though they were dependencies or provinces. It would place the states of the union in a condition of infericrity never dreamed of when the constitution was adopted or when the eleventh amendment was made a part the supreme law of the land." If this is the result of this decision, it is, to my mind, one of the unhappy incidents in the history of our republic, because the very theory of our government is based upon the right of the states to control absolutely their own domestic affairs.

If, then, our whole system of government is changed, have we not only retarded the progress of the republic, but have we not gone back a century toward a centralized form of government which is not to the advantage of the people? What this government needs is not more power. What it needs to-day is to so distribute the privileges under the government that all citizens will have equal opportunity. America has been called the land of opportunity. But American opportunity should not mean a granting of special privileges to any class, but should afford all alike the means for culture, education, prosperity and contentment.

For nearly a century and a half America has presented to the world the spectacle of a happy, prosperous and intelligent people, maintaining a pure democracy founded upon their supreme will. The hallmark of a democracy is that the powers of government are close to the people. Throughout the world, wherever democracy is advancing, its progress is marked by a greater measure of selfgovernment to each community. Will the American people turn to the setting rather than the rising sun? Shall we now, because some laws are found irksome by a class and interfere with their selfish aims, commence to deprive our sovereign states of that measure of home rule which until now they have seen fit to reserve to themselves? I cannot believe it. Upon the contrary I believe that the limitations upon state and federal governments, the nice balancing of the powers of each, and of the different departments in each, which have been so efficacious in the past, will be maintained in their full vigor in the Therefore, discharging all of our responsibilities as citizens of a country, refusing to surrender our rights of citizenship in any degree, let us so live that the heroism exemplified on this and other American battlefields may not be simply a tradition, and the national wisdom of our forefathers a mere legend, but that through us and those to come America will reach her full destiny in the permanent establishment of a perfect union, which shall be not for to-day nor for to-morrow, but forever, and be so established that it will be for all of the people, and that their government shall not perish.

IT SAVED MY LIFE WRITES ECZEMA PATIENT.

Red-Ridden Sufferer Completely Cured By Use of D. D. D. External Wash.

"One of the most remarkable Eczema cures recently credited to the well known D. D. D. Prescription has just been recorded in Chicago. Mrs. E. Hegg, 1550 West Madison street, under date of Dec. 9, 1907, writes as fol-

"I suffered three years with Weeping Eczema. It started with a little spot on my knees and spread fast over my whole body. I spent hundreds of dollars and went to every good doctor I heard of, but kept getting worse. Nothing would stop the awful itch and burning. "I had to stay in bed from May to the middle of July. Then I tried D. D. D. Prescription. This is the 9th of December and I am entirely free from the terrible disease. D. D. D. saved my life.

"When I began this treatment, people were afraid of me I looked so terrible. My husabnd was the only one who would take care of me. D. D. D. stopped the itch at once so I could sleep, which I had not done before. Then I began to get better fast and now my skin is clear and white, not a spot anywhere."

Just a few drops of D.D D. Prescription applied to the skin brings reliefnothing to swallow or drink. We wouch for D. D. D. Prescription, also the cleansing D. D. D. Soap, at C J. Clark & Co.'s, Paris, Ky.

The Worst Punishment.

In changing the senetnce of the negro from hanging to that of spending his life in Boston, Governor Jeff Davis, of Arkansas, patterned something after the case of the darkey in Woodford county, when Ed Marshall, the famous lawyer, told the court that the worst punishment that could be inflicted would be, neither to send the prisoner to the penitentiary or hang him, but to send him back to his master, old Bill Higgins, to spend his days, as that would be nearer hell on earth than any punishment that might be given
